Agricultural Marketing in Tropical Africa Jun 29 2020 First published in 1999, this volume explores how African agriculture has always had a strong appeal for the people of the Netherlands. This is due to (1) a long-established interest in tropical agriculture going back to the days when Indonesia was a Dutch colony; (2) a broad-based desire to help the Third World; and (3) the view that Tropical Africa is highly dependent on agriculture. As practical expertise in Africa and systematic research on African agriculture grew, specialization became both possible and necessary. This volume reflects the specialization in marketing which has been welcomed by economists, geographers and scholars of agricultural marketing. In addition to a general introductory chapter, this book includes five contributions on staple food grains, two on export crops, two on cattle and one on horticulture. Nine of the chapters are country-specific, covering Benin, Burkina Faso, Cameroon, Côte d'Ivoire, Ghana, Kenya, Sierra Leone, Tanzania and Zambia.

Shared Lives of Humans and Animals Oct 14 2021 Animals are conscious beings that form their own perspective regarding the lifeworlds in which they exist, and according to which they act in relation to their species and other animals. In recent decades a thorough transformation in societal research has taken place, as many groups that were previously perceived as being passive or subjugated objects have become active subjects. This fundamental reassessment, first promoted by feminist and radical studies, has subsequently been followed by spatial and material turns that have brought non-human agency to the fore. In human-animal relations, despite a power imbalance, animals are not mere objects but act as agents. They shape our material world and our encounters with them influence the way we think about the world and ourselves. This book focuses on animal agency and interactions between humans and animals. It explores the reciprocity of human-animal relations and the capacity of animals to act and shape human societies. The chapters draw on examples from the Global North to explore how human life in modernity has been and is shaped by the sentience, autonomy, and physicality of various animals, particularly in landscapes where communities and wild animals exist in close proximity. It offers a timely contribution to animal studies, environmental geography, environmental history, and social science and humanities studies of the environment more broadly.

(Anmerkung: Der zweite Teil ist fertiggestellt und befindet sich zur Zeit im Lektorat. Stand: August 2017) Buchbeschreibung - NOAH - DAS EDIKT I - Ein junger Mann, der seinen besten Freund oft als Bodygard begleitet, befindet sich wieder einmal mit ihm, gar nicht so überraschend, in einer brenzligen Situation. Während des Schlagabtauschs mit einer Straßengang wird er von einer unbekanntenen Stimme gerufen, die anscheinend zu keinem der Menschen gehört, die sich im Augenblick um ihn herum befinden. Die Straßen New Yorks werden Zeuge einer denkwürdigen und turbulenten Auseinandersetzung. Der junge Mann erfährt, dass er ein Nachfahre Noahs ist und dass die Erde ihrem Untergang entgegengeht. Sieben Milliarden Seelen werden erlöschen. Er soll eine Arche bauen und den Planeten Erde mit einem kleinen Teil der Menschheit verlassen. Der atheistisch denkende und handelnde Noah bringt dieser Ansprache Unglauben entgegen. Allerdings kann er sich dem Diktat seiner Abstammungslinie und den damit verbundenen Aufgaben nicht entziehen. So beginnt eine beispiellose Rettungsmission unter der Führung eines Mannes, der sich sein Leben so ganz anders vorgestellt hat. Die Geschehnisse in einem Sonnensystem einer fernen Galaxie, die jedoch nicht die Ursache für die Vernichtung der Erde darstellen, stehen mit den Ereignissen auf der Erde in einem unmittelbaren Zusammenhang. Zudem tauchen weitere Kräfte auf, die den Fortbestand der Menschheit aus ideologischen Gründen verhindern wollen. Kann Noah die Mammutaufgabe bewältigen und dem stetig größer werdenden Chaos entkommen?

War, Agriculture, and Food Sep 25 2022 This volume of essays examines one of the crucial periods in the evolution of the European rural economy and society, assessing the effects of the Second World War on the European countryside, and the impact of food and agricultural problems on the outcome of the war.

British Agriculture in the First World War (RLE The First World War) Aug 12 2021 This volume comprehensively describes how British farmers coped with the problems of shortage of labour and other factors of production, as well as assessing how well agriculture performed as a supplier of food to the nation. Use of previously neglected records provides much evidence on issues such as the deployment of substitute labour and the introduction of the tractor into British farming for the first time. Challenging accepted view on the period, the author shows that shortages of labour and other factors of production had only a slight effect on farm output and the national food supply.

Contemporary Rural Geographies May 21 2022 This book provides a cohesive set of research statements on critical related issues in British rural geography, as well as echoing the priorities identified by an influential figure in British rural geography, Richard Munton. This book demonstrates that the rural world needs to be seen in a far wider perspective than that of agriculture/ food production, in order to comprehend how resources are being appraised and exploited in new ways, and to respond to the pressing challenges of sustainability for the decades ahead. Chapters adopt a time perspective to explore a series of key themes: the rise of productivist farming ways of conceptualising agricultural change the evolution of landownership and property rights rural and urban agendas for nature conservation the gap between policy and action for sustainable development. The final set of chapters is devoted to policy-related issues associated with agricultural change and the profound challenge of rural diversification for the future. The last chapter traces the prominent career of Richard Munton.

The Farmer in England, 1650-1980 Apr 08 2021 Farmers held a pivotal role in the capitalist agriculture that emerged in England in the eighteenth century, yet they have attracted little attention from rural historians. Farmers made agriculture happen. They brought together the capital and the technical and management skills which allowed food to be produced. It was they - and not landowners - who employed and supervised labour. They accepted the risk inherent in agriculture, paying largely fixed rents out of fluctuating and uncertain incomes. They are the rural equivalent of the small businessman with his own firm, employing people and producing for markets, sometimes distant ones. Our ignorance of the farmer might be justified by the claim that they are ill-documented, but in fact farmers were normally literate and kept records - day books, journals, accounts. This volume goes some way to counter the claim that a history of the farmer cannot be written by showing the range of materials available and the diversity of approaches which can be employed to study the activities and actions of individual farmers from the sixteenth century onwards. Farm records offer invaluable insights into the farming economy which are available nowhere else. In this volume accounts are used in a variety of ways - as the means to access single farms, but also in gross, as a national sample of accounts, to reveal regional variation over time. For the later nineteenth and twentieth centuries the range of sources available increases enormously and farmers - indeed farmer's wives too - emerge as articulate commentators on their own position, using correspondence to outline their difficulties in the First World War. Some even developed second careers as newspaper columnists and journalists. This book focuses attention back on the farmer and, it is hoped, will help to restore farmers to their rightful position in history as rural entrepreneurs.

The Development of Modern Agriculture Oct 26 2022 This highly readable and up-to-date history provides an informative critique of the causes and consequences of the modern agricultural revolution, since the agricultural depression of the inter-war period. This includes evaluating the impact of the Second World War, the post-war scientific and technological revolutions and the metamorphosis in the role of the state. It also examines the impact of the Common Agricultural Policy and the more recent attempts to rationalize production. The book provides the essential background for an objective appreciation of modern agricultural development.

Jews and other foreigners Sep 13 2021 Drawing on a wide range of documentary and oral sources, including interviews with refugees, this book explores the responses in Manchester to those threatened by the rise of Fascism in Europe. By exploring the responses of particular segments of Manchester society, from Jewish communal organisations and the Zionist movement to the Christian churches, pacifist organisations and private charities, it offers a critical analysis of the factors which facilitated and limited the work of rescue and their effect on the lives of the seven or eight thousand refugees - Spanish, Italian, German, Austrian and Czech - who arrived in Manchester between 1933 and 1940.
